

The effect called facial flushing is a common reaction to alcohol among East Asians. It affects an (問 3) thirty-six percent of Japanese, Chinese and Koreans. The reaction is also known as "Asian flush" or "Asian glow."

For many, even a small amount of alcohol can cause unpleasant effects. Most commonly, their face, neck and sometimes their whole body turns red. People might also feel lightheaded and sick to their stomach. They might experience a burning sensation, increased heart rate, shortness of breath and headaches. The cause is a genetic difference that they are (問 4) with called an ALDH2 deficiency.

But the effects might be more serious than just a red face. Researchers (問 5) of a link between this condition and an increased risk of cancer of the esophagus from drinking alcohol.

(問 3) 1 : estimate 2 : estimation 3 : estimating 4 : estimated

(問 4) 1 : bear 2 : bone 3 : boned 4 : born

(問 5) 1 : warm 2 : wear 3 : wears 4 : worn

It is not easy (問 6) a doctor in the United States. The first step is getting into a medical college. More than one hundred twenty American schools offer study programs for people wanting to be doctors. People can get advice about medical schools from many resources. One of these is the Princeton Review. The publication provides information about college, study programs and jobs. The Princeton Review says competition to enter medical schools is (問 7). American medical schools have only about sixteen thousand openings for students. But more than two times this many seek entry. Many of those seeking to be admitted are women.

(問 6) 1 : becomes 2 : for becoming 3 : to becoming 4 : to become

(問 7) 1 : poor 2 : large 3 : strong 4 : success

A top official at China's food and drug safety watchdog has been fired and is (問 8) investigation, state media said, three years after the agency's former head was executed for corruption.

Zhang Jingli, deputy chief of China's State Food and Drug Administration (SFDA), is being investigated for "suspected serious disciplinary violations," the official Xinhua news agency reported.

Zhang, 55 has been removed from the post he took up in 2003, the report said, citing a Communist Party body tasked with rooting out corruption among party officials. No details were provided.

In 2007, former SFDA head Zheng Xiaoyu was executed for accepting $850,000 in bribes in exchange for granting approvals for hundreds of medicines, some of (問 9) were found to be dangerous.

The case caused huge concern in China and triggered governmental pledges to improve supervision of the country's food and drug industries, but huge safety scandals have (問 10) erupted since then.

(問 8) 1 : above 2 : at 3 : over 4 : under

(問 9) 1 : which 2 : whichever 3 : when 4 : who

(問 10) 1 : moreover 2 : most 3 : nevertheless 4 : no